

We all journey through life ...

... sometimes our journeys are interrupted ...

Interrupted Journeys

Available on the ACT government website is open source data outlining pedestrian crashes from 2012-2018, and whether they were fatalities, injuries or just caused property damage. Interrupted journeys is an animated series showing incidents as they occur, whilst some fade away, the effects of others are never truly forgotten. Displaying these deaths alongside the possible journeys these individuals could have taken along Canberran streets encourages us all not to forget the stories behind the data.

The background graphic is an excerpt from the animation showing a snapshot from November 2018.
